

PROFESSIONAL BIOGRAPHY

Edward Ha, M.D., F.A.C.C.

Cardiology

Education

M.D., 1997–2001, Albert Einstein College of Medicine/Yeshiva University, Bronx, New York

B.A., 1993–1997, Biochemical Sciences, Harvard University, Cambridge, Massachusetts, graduated Magna Cum Laude

Residency/Fellowship

Post-doctoral fellow, Interventional Cardiology, 2008–2009, University of Washington, Seattle, Washington

Post-doctoral fellow, Interventional Cardiology, 2004–2008, Iowa Heart Center, Des Moines, Iowa

Post-doctoral fellow, Cardiology, 2004–2007, University of Missouri-Columbia, Columbia, Missouri

Intern/Resident, Internal Medicine, 2001–2004, Cleveland Clinic Foundation, Cleveland, Ohio

Society Memberships

Fellow, American College of Cardiology (F.A.C.C.)

Member, American Medical Association

Member, American Heart Association

Member, American Society of Nuclear Cardiology

Member, Society for Cardiovascular Angiography and Interventions

Certifications

Interventional Cardiology, 2009

ACLS and BCLS, 2009

Cardiovascular Disease, 2008

Internal Medicine, 2004

Level 2 Certified in Cardiac CT Interpretation

Board-eligible for certification in Nuclear Cardiology

Medical licensure in Arizona, Kentucky, Ohio and Iowa

Hobbies

Biking, playing the cello, tennis